Bio

I am going to start this bio like a cliché essay introductory paragraph. As I attempt to write this, I keep asking myself, 'Who am I? What do I do?' Even though those are easy questions to answer on the surface level; I struggle to answer them deeply. I am a designer who learned to code and started pursuing different projects that were development heavy. I enjoy keeping the end-user, and how they interact with the finished product in mind, however, I immensely enjoy building out the project's code.
